its complete history, is then sent to the office of the Mayor, for the signature of the Mayor or his chief clerk if he decides to authorize the chief clerk to sign; from the Mayor's office the warrant, with all tha other papers before referred to, is sent to the Chamberlain's office, so that he or his deputy may sign the check.

But it is able to attempt to differentiate detached, and every one knows that the check and warrant constitute practically one instrument. After the Chamberlain or his deputy has signed the check the warrant and check, with the accompanying papers, are transmitted to the disburse-ment clerk of the Compttoller's office for delivery to the payee, and no consideration of the merits of the claim is given in the Finance Department on the return of the of no employee except the disbutsement clerk and the clerk who ascertains if any liens have been filed against it.

The warrant and check would be useless to any payee unless the check bore the signature of the Chamberlain or his deputy and in order to make a payment complete and final one of these signatures is absolutely essential. In fact the warrants read in this way. The warrant is to be paid only by check on the city treasury, signed by the Chamberlain to the order of the payee

The question is a simple one. When was the Cobalan variant made effective for payment by the thumberlain? It was made effective on January 4, 1910, during the administration of the present Mayor through the official act of his appointee Mr. Hyde. If it were a part of the business administration of the Finance Departmen that warrants should be subject to review after they have been received from the Chamberlain in form to be paid the applica-tion in Mr. Hyde's communication to the Mayor might be justified, but he and every one else know that this is not the practice nor the policy and never has been

The meeting will be the first one of the executive committee held since last December, and a great deal of water has gone over the dam since then. It was the gossip vesterday that the radical members of the committee have it in mind that Mr. Hearst should be heckled. It was said that he will be asked to put himself on record and will be asked to put himself on record as to whether he intends to stick with the league or go back to the Democratic party and also whether he intends to be party and also whether he intends to be made formal reply.

The State committee of the league has been invited to attend the meeting.

Robert Stewart, the Brooklyn lawyer who is chairman of the county committee denied yesterday that it had been planned to heckle the party's leader or that there was any suspicion that Mr. Hearst might desert the leaguers. Mr. Stewart said desert the leaguers. Mr Stewart said that the meeting vas called in the regular order of things in order that the members of the committee might get better acquainted and make preparations for campaign planning. As to actual plans, he said, it was altogether too early to think of discussing them, saide such early planting of political fields might be subject to frost.
